What is a Keyword Research Matrix?

Keyword matrices have traditionally been used for paid search, but also have far reaching implications for organic search; essentially using other factors of influence to help qualify and quantify your opportunities.

If built and used properly a keyword matrix can increase your rankings.

The keyword matrix will help you match the user intent in search queries with the content on your website, blogs, social media postings, thus sending positive signals to Google that you're relevant in your niche.

Once we get back your results, you'll see how much time, effort and resources went into your matrix. We've taken the time to train the people doing the research, purchased the tools, and invested hundreds of hours learning how to use the resources so you don't have to.

Keyword Research packages from the BroadMoar let you harness the power of the best keyword research methods, tools, and tactics – and you get a comprehensive spreadsheet of your keywords.
